Does Your Baking Powder Contain Alum?

Prof. Geo. F. Barker, M.D., University of Penn.: "All the constituents of alum remain (from alum baking powders) in the bread, and the alum itself is reproduced to all intents and purposes when the bread is dissolved by the gastric juice in the process of digestion. I regard the use of alum as highly injurious."

Dr. Alonzo Clark: "A substance (alum) which can derange the stomach should not be tolerated in baking powder."

Prof. W. G. Tucker, New York State Chemist: "I believe it (alum) to be decidedly injurious when used as a constituent of food articles."

Prof. S. W. Johnson, Yale College: "I regard their (alum and soluble alumina salts) introduction into baking powders as most dangerous to health."

In view of such testimony as this, every care must be exercised by the housewife to exclude the over and over condemned cheap, alum baking powders from the food.

Baking powders made from cream of tartar, which is highly refined grape acid, are promotive of health, and more efficient. No other kind should be used in leavening food. Royal Baking Powder is the highest example of a pure cream of tartar powder.

THE WOOL TARIFF WORKS WELL.

Commissioner of Labor Carroll D. Wright Proves That Wages Generally Have Been Increased—Insurance Business Good—Freight Cars Needed.

Washington, Oct. 17.—There has been a wonderful improvement in woolen manufactures during the last few years, due to the beneficial effects of the Dingley tariff law. Our imports of woolen manufactures are now less than one-third the value of those of 1903, while during the last ten years the exports of woolen manufactures have more than trebled.

During the eight months ending on August 31, 1900, the imports of woolen manufactures amounted to $12,084,928, against $40,697,044 in 1893, and $20,540,094 in 1896.

On the other hand the exports of woolen manufactures have slowly but steadily increased, advancing from $86,000 in 1890, $470,725 in 1893, $614,678 in 1896, $144,512 in 1897, and $717,649 in 1898 to $886,030 in the eight months of 1900.

WAGES GENERALLY INCREASED.

A Comparison of Reliable Figures That Is Conclusive.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, has issued a bulletin showing the rate of wages in various occupations for a period extending back to 1891. The data were secured directly from the pay rolls of establishments in all sections of the country. It pertains to 148 establishments, representing 26 industries and 192 other occupations. The comparison follows:

| Year. | Relative Wages. | Year. | Relative Wages. |
|-------|-----------------|-------|-----------------|
| 1891 | 100 | 1898 | 100 |
| 1892 | 100.30 | 1899 | 100.86 |
| 1893 | 100.30 | 1900 | 101.54 |
| 1894 | 100.30 | 1900 | 101.54 |
| 1895 | 100.30 | 1900 | 101.54 |

TRADE AWAYS ELECTION.

Wholesalers Withhold Business Until Campaign Is Over.

New York, Oct. 17.—A general complaint about the weather, and some concern as to the result of the coming election, have been the features of the dry goods trade. Cotton goods have shown a tendency to advance. Dress goods are doing well, with strong inclinations towards plaids and Oxford. The silk trade has been quiet. Spring lines are being shown by advance salesmen. Linens are quiet. Complaint is heard of slow development of underwear. The spring sale has not been up to expectations. It appears to be due to a desire to wait until after the result of the election is known.

INSURANCE POLICIES.

Certain Indication That Prosperity Has Reached Workingman.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—F. A. Jackson, local cashier of the New York Life insurance company, said:
"An interesting indication of the fact that remarkable prosperity has come to the working classes of the city is that while the value of our policies has about doubled within four years, the policies which in the aggregate pay us best are for $100. That means, of course, that the increase has come from people who four years ago were too poor to insure their lives for the protection, in case of death, of widowed wives and orphaned children. The new business is quickly affected by good or bad times. Premiums for life insurance have been extended to working people as never before."

PROSPERITY NUGGETS.

Facts About Cigars.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Over 2,700,000 more cigars were produced in the United States under President McKinley's administration than under Cleveland's. At an average of 65,000 cigars per man per year, it would require more than 10,000 cigar makers to supply this increase in production, and this does not include the additional number of people necessary to supply this extra 20,000 men with material.

B. & O. New Freight Cars.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 17.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company has just let a contract for the construction of 6,000 new freight cars. Of the entire number, 2,000 will be coal cars of 50 tons capacity, and the rest will be 45-ton cars for general merchandise and coal and ore.

More Steel Rails Wanted.
Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—The Reading road has just placed orders with the Pennsylvania and the Lackawanna Steel companies for 25,000 tons of steel rails. The price is said to be $26 per ton. Another large contract for rails soon to be let is that of the Baltimore & Ohio, which is preparing specifications for 40,000 tons.

Once a Defect, Now a Balance.
Washington, Oct. 17.—There is a surplus of $1,225,771 in the United States treasury. Five years ago, under the democratic free trade policy, there was a deficit of $42,515,223.

More Beef Cars Wanted.
Chicago, Oct. 17.—Nelson Morris & Co., the cattle buyers and beef packers, are about to let a contract for 100 additional beef cars.

Out of Danger.
Washington, Oct. 17.—A cablegram posted at the post office department yesterday announced that Director of Posts Adams at Havana, who was suffering from a serious attack of yellow fever, is entirely out of danger.

The Missionary Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States will be held in Louisville October 21st to 25th.

It Happened in a Drug Store.
"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. H. Randall, the popular druggist of Canton, N. Y., "she was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if it did not do it would be worth the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale by J. Jas. Wood & Son, Druggists.

IN A BURST OF ELOQUENCE

Theodore Roosevelt Appeals to Kentucky To Stand For the Purity of the Bal- lot Box and the Honor of The American Flag

TRIBUTES TO BLUE AND GRAY

IDOL OF PATRIOTIC AND LIBERTY LOVING KENTUCKIANS

BY STEPHEN D. WILLIS.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13.—Gov. Roosevelt entered Louisville at 6:30 o'clock tonight and received an enthusiastic reception.

Arm in arm with Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, the Rough Rider walked through the Union Station between long rows of cheering men, women and children.

"Hurrah for Roosevelt. We are for you, Teddy" came from a thousand throats.

Carriages for Gov. Roosevelt, his friend, Curtis Guild, of Boston, his private secretary and the escort committee awaited outside. They were driven to the Galt House. In the Roosevelt carriage with him were Gen. Buckner, Chairman Combs and Senator Deboe.

At the Galt House a band and 2,000 people welcomed him with music and cheers. Roosevelt was shown to his rooms on the parlor floor. Shortly after supper was served in the private dining room. Those present were Messrs. Roosevelt, Guild, Combs, Duty, Welsh, Deboe and Barnett.

After supper the Governor took a short rest and then came to the parlor corridor and shook hands with many prominent citizens. The passages of the hotel were packed with people, and as he appeared in the lobby on the way to the Auditorium he was compelled to lift his Rough Rider hat many times in acknowledgment of applause. There were cheers and warm greetings for Roosevelt all along the street car line, and the escort committee going by a special trolley train.

Nothing like the meeting at the Auditorium was ever seen in Louisville. In attendance, robust enthusiasm and brilliant if far surpassed the Bryan meeting of a week ago. The vast hall was a scene of wonderful beauty. The national colors were everywhere and handsome pictures of great statesmen, living and dead, hung about the stage. Patriotic airs from the balcony kept the audience aroused while awaiting Gov. Roosevelt.

The doors were thrown open at 7 o'clock and fifteen minutes later no space was left. The people stood upon tables, packed the aisles and crowded in wherever one could crouch, stand or hang. It is estimated that fully 7,000 people jammed into the building. The women on the floor and in the boxes gave a brilliant setting to the audience and the great amphitheater back of the stage was filled with the leading people of Louisville and the State. The section next to the door on the north side was reserved for the Roosevelt escort committee.

At 8 o'clock great cheering outside the building announced Gov. Roosevelt's arrival. A side door swung open and the vast audience arose to greet. Men and women strained their necks to get the first glimpse of the hero who stands so close to the hearts of the American people.

Capt. H. S. Irwin presided and announced the speakers of the evening, first presenting Hon. Augustus E. Willson. Mr. Willson spoke briefly and mentioned the name of John W. Yerkes there was a great demonstration.

Roosevelt remained behind the stage wings until Willson referred to him, when he stepped briskly to the center of the platform, acknowledging the wild applause his first appearance had started with a smile and a bow. He took a seat between Stone and Combs while Willson finished. When introduced he stepped far out to the front of the stage and with his right arm raised outstretched he said:

"Fellow-Americans!"

His manner, bearing, gesture and voice seemed to instantly electrify the audience. A great shout of applause went up at this simple greeting, and from that moment Roosevelt held the audience in rapt attention seemingly without effort. Like Blaine, Ingersoll or Coolidge there seemed an indefinable power to electrify and stir an audience in the very presence of the man, and above all the intense earnestness of the speaker went direct to the hearts of those who heard him.

The greater part of Roosevelt's speech bore directly on the bitter struggle for civil liberty in Kentucky and the speaker's many strong points were cheered to the echo. He aroused great enthusiasm when he said that if Bryan won by only one vote he wanted to see him seated.

When, after explaining that Bryanism meant different things in different places, Albigdom in Illinois, Agricul-

Explained outside where he again spoke to an overflow meeting of fully 5,000 people.

While Roosevelt was speaking inside the hall several speeches to overflow meetings were made outside. Col. D. G. Colson, Judge W. M. Beckner and several other speakers were addressing great crowds at the time on the outside. It was estimated that 18,000 people were inside, outside and around the building.

When Gov. Roosevelt had finished his chief address there were loud calls for ex-Gov. Buckner and the gallant old soldier made a brief speech denouncing Goebellism and appealing for honesty in elections, which was received with great applause.

Following Gen. Buckner, Hon. Temple Bailey, of Louisville, until recently a Democrat, made a very able speech. He referred to Goebellism as having been fastened upon a people by trickery and dishonesty worthy only of "tin horn" gamblers.

ROOSEVELT'S GREAT SPEECH

Louisville, Oct. 13.—Gov. Roosevelt's address at the Auditorium tonight was in part as follows:

"I intend tonight to appeal to you not as Republicans but as Americans, as men who believe in civic honesty, civic righteousness and national greatness above and beyond party lines. (Applause.) We are still within six years of Coxe's army and free soup kitchens. You recall these instances and if you want to go back to these times it is your inalienable privilege under the constitution to do so. I do not want you to take my utterances or those of anyone else in this campaign; I want you to take Mr. Bryan's utterances four years ago. Take what he then prophesied and compare it with what has not come to pass. (Applause.)

"Few things ever pleased me more than to this day speak from a platform on which sits Gen. Buckner (loud and prolonged applause), who has shown those qualities of soldierly and statesmanship and of civil manliness which we are glad to hold up as an example to our children (applause); who fought valiantly for what he deemed right, who stood up as the Governor of this State to make the State a shining example to others, and is great as a soldier, great as a statesman and greatest as an American citizen. (Applause.)

"I have traveled today with Gen. Basil Duke (applause) and Gen. Buckner. Gen. Buckner and Basil Duke wore the gray of the Confederacy, while Gen. Franz Sigel and Gen. Edward Bragg wore the blue of the Union army. These men were Democrats until Democracy ceased to be anything but a name, until the democratic party fell under the control of those who led it to tread the dark and devious paths of mob violence and fraud at home and National dishonor abroad. (Applause.) These men call themselves Democrats and invoke the memory of Andrew Jackson—of Old Hickory—whose creed was sound money, expansion and the honor of the flag. (Applause.) If they were to walk over his grave he would turn over in it. Bryan has shown uncertainty regarding the paramount issue in this campaign. I can tell you what the paramount issue is—it is Bryanism and Bryanism means different things in different States (applause), but it means something bad everywhere. (Applause.) In the far islands of the sea, Bryanism means Agnaldom; in Illinois it means Albigdom. There are certain men who are sufficiently unfortunate to have their names typify social phases of which we are not proud. Albigdom has risen to that eminence. In the far Bryanism means Albigdom; in South Dakota it means Pettigrewism; in New York it means Crokerism, and here in Kentucky it means Goebellism. (Loud applause.)

"Now, think what that means; think of the influences that stand behind it; think of the influence of the pardon of anarchists and band thieves in Illinois; think in New York of Tammany Hall fattening on vice, flourishing in spawn, corrupting the city and reaching out to seize the State, hoping to do it by the aid of Bryan. (Applause.) Think of it.

"Here in your State, to supplement a supporter of anarchy in Illinois, a supporter of the greatest civic corruption in New York, Mr. Bryan comes to the aid of those who commit the capital crime against the republic of suppressing or altering the votes of a majority of the freemen of this State. (Applause.)

"We have the right to appeal to every man, Republican, Democrat, Populist, or whatever he may be, provided he is an honest man. We have the right to appeal to him to drop all else until it is settled once for all that in every State of the Union, mine or yours, my vote or yours has the right to cast his vote as he pleases and to have it counted as cast. (Applause.) That is not a party question.

"If, in this election the impossible should occur and a majority of the people should cast their votes for Mr. Bryan, though I should feel that they had indicated the wrong thing it was in the power of mankind to inflict upon the commonwealth, I would strain every resource there is in the State before I would let a single vote that was cast for Bryan be counted for anyone else. (Applause.) Now that should be the attitude of every man fit to call himself an American citizen. When that is not done, when a party grasps power by nullifying the will of the people, every other question should be forgotten until that wrong has been remedied and until the wrongdoers have been punished. If not before the law at least before the bar of an aroused and implacable popular opinion.

"Mr. Bryan is immensely concerned for the right of self-government of a Tugal bandit on the other side of the earth, but he comes into Kentucky the champion of the party of fraud, the champion of those who disfranchised a majority of the inhabitants of this State and who seated a Governor who was not elected. (Applause.)

"Finally, I appeal to you, oh, men of Kentucky; oh, men of that State that sent so many thousands of her sons to wear the blue and so many thousands to wear the gray in times that tried men's souls; to you people of Kentucky who never flinched and who made the name of your great and beautiful State a synonym for courage and resolution; I appeal to the young men in the name of those who wore the blue and the gray, in the name of the great deeds done by the generation that in the time of its manhood fought to a finish a great civil war, a war that left us a reunited nation, that left our flag without a seam; I appeal to you children of Union soldiers and of Confederate soldiers, men whose fathers proved their faith—I appeal to you to take the lead in seeing that this nation, on the threshold of a new century, declares once for all the old American doctrine that where the American flag has been raised in honor it shall never be hauled down in dishonor." (Applause.)

OUTRAGE AT ELIZABETHTOWN

Louisville, Oct. 13.—At Elizabethtown Gov. Roosevelt suffered the first indignity thrust upon him in the State. No sooner had he mounted the platform with Gen. S. B. Buckner and other members of his party than an attempt was made to break up the meeting. Small boys carried Bryan banners in the outskirts of the crowd and empty coal wagons were driven at full speed through the square. The steam whistle on a mill close by was blown loudly and half a hundred men or more shouted "Hurrah for Bryan" when the Governor began speaking.

Despite the fact that he had a soreness of his throat which had compelled him to shorten all his earlier speeches during the day, the Governor proceeded to make himself heard in spite of the noise in the crowd. Above the shriek of the steam whistle rang the words:

"I call your attention to the attitude of Mr. Bryan's friends on the subject of law and order."

Then he waved his hand to the crowd and continued:

"It is natural that the men who have tried to deprive Kentucky of a free ballot should be opposed to free speech. It is not extraordinary that men who have stolen a Governorship and who seek to steal it again should not dare to hear the truth of history, but should seek to gag an American citizen even before he has uttered one word of his opponents in political controversy."

This brought cheers and more interjections. The Governor was urged not to further endanger his throat, but to permit a substitute to finish the programme. He refused the suggestions spoke the full fifteen minutes allotted him and was escorted to his train by a large crowd.

"It was just a put-up job to break up the meeting," was Roosevelt's comment when he returned to the car, "but I won't let them."

Chairman Barnett, of the State Central Committee, and Chairman Combs, of the State Executive Committee, telegraphed news of the trouble to this city and urged the local Republican organizations to redouble their efforts to show Roosevelt that Kentuckians are not lacking in courtesy and hospitality.

It has been so long since anything has come over the wires about Li Hung Beckham that the natural inference is that Boss McCrory has backed him into his ragado until he can recedit the Earl's latest campaign edict.

President Confident of His Re-election

[Wellman in Chicago Times-Herald.]

Washington, Oct. 13.—President McKinley has returned to Washington full of confidence in the success of the Republican ticket three weeks hence. He has had reports from all of the so-called doubtful States and he has no doubt of the result. All he asks is that the Republicans everywhere continue to work as they are now working, and that there be no cessation of activity till the ballots are all in and counted.

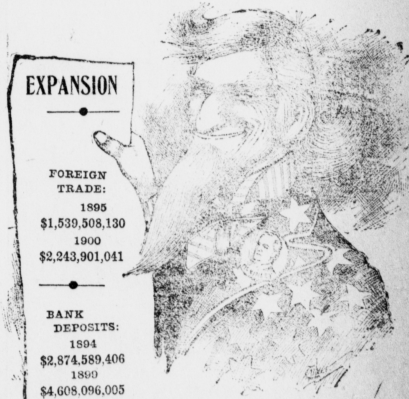

The President, as everyone knows, is a most excellent judge of public opinion. His autens in this direction has long been admitted to be as nearly infallible as human judgment can be. He cannot easily be misled, either by the bluster of his opponents or the overconfidence of his friends.

The advice which the President has received indicate that the Republican electoral tickets will be successful in every Northern State east of the Missouri river, in all the Pacific coast States, in the border States of Delaware, West Virginia, Maryland and probably Kentucky, in such Western States as Kansas, North and South Dakota and Wyoming, with even chances for Nebraska, Colorado, Idaho, Utah and Nevada.

At the last Cabinet meeting there was an informal discussion of the political situation. All the members present were delighted at the serene confidence shown by the President, whose information and judgment they know to be of the best.

President McKinley is fully content to devote all his time to the public service, leaving Mr. Bryan the monopoly of speechmaking. He is satisfied that the Democratic candidate is hurting his own cause in almost every speech he makes.

BLACKBURN'S FOUL SPEECH

Says Yerkes is Accessory to Goebel's Murder and Ought to Wear Stripes.

[Special to Louisville Post.] Owensboro, Ky., Oct. 10.—In his speech here in the court house yesterday afternoon J. C. S. Blackburn made a particularly vicious attack upon the Hon. John W. Yerkes. In speaking of Mr. Yerkes he said among other things: "But there are those who will tell you that Mr. Yerkes is better than his party. That may be. He could not be worse. I have no patience with the statement that he is better than his party. I have known Yerkes ever since he was born, and here and everywhere I assert that he is not one whit better nor one whit worse than the average Republican leader here in Kentucky, and that exhausts comparison.

"An accessory before the fact is no worse than an accessory after the fact. The accessory that fires the shot is not in law, in equity or in conscience, one whit blacker or more infamous than the man who counsels him to do it, or the man who approves and defends it after it is done. Tested by that fair rule, Yerkes is no better than Bill Taylor and hardly as respectable as Taylor for Taylor took the responsibility to advise assassination before it was done, and Yerkes defended it after it was done. When he went into the Republican convention last May and drafted the platform that infamed every act of Taylor he made himself participus criminis and an accessory after the fact.

"IF JIM HOWARD, WHO FIRED THE SHOT, AND GILES POWERS, WHO HELPED TO PLAN IT, AND BILL TAYLOR ARE TO BE HANGED OR SENT TO THE PENITENTIARY, ANOTHER SUIT OF STRIPED CLOTHES OUGHT TO BE PROVIDED FOR JOHN YERKES."

EXPRESSION REPEATED.
"Perhaps it will save you much trouble if I give you, and underwrite as of this date, this extract from my Carnegie Hall speech: 'When we have a President who believes that it is neither his right or his duty to see that the mail trains are not obstructed and that interstate commerce has its free way, ir-

Leslie Combs, the Republican Committee chairman, says McKinley will carry the State by 10,000, Yerkes by 20,000, and that five Republican Congressmen will be elected—in the Third, Fifth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh districts, with good chances in several other districts. There are eleven districts in the State. Mr. Combs' figures are based on a careful roll of the State, just completed. The Democrats have made no attempt to secure a systematic poll.

When I went to New York or anywhere, I often went to Kentucky, to practice law or to do any business that required something besides wind and impudence, he'd startle. When I was out of office he'd be out at the toes and elbows. He's a "political hack" that don't break down, or he has just enough wit and gall to keep his nose in the public manger. The idea of a man of Blackburn's intellectual and moral equipment giving himself airs over two such giants as the two great Kentuckians who have settled in New York would be laughable if it were not pitiable.
